An Invisible, Edible Coating Is Making Avocados Last Longer (Finally!)

A day or two can make all the difference — especially if you're an avocado.

According to the Department of Agriculture, between 30% and 40% of the food supply in the U.S. is wasted. Much of that waste is due to spoilage — i.e., your food going bad before you get to enjoy it. But that could all change if Apeel has anything to say about it.
